LEAGUE PROTECTION FOR MINORITIES

Action May Be Taken in Asia Minor

Powers Would Be Asked to Provide Forces

Geneva, Sept. 9 .- On the floor of the Assembly of the League of Nations this morning, before the opening, a great deal of speculation was prevalent as to hether the League was not likely soon to have to under take the protection of the minority population of Asia Minor, in yiew of the present military situation there. It was pointed out it was impossible for the League to impose any decision in this connection and that it would be necessary in any event for the powers to furnish whatever force was required. The League, however, stands ready to use its moral influence when the time comes, it was generally declared.

In the resumption of the general debate on the work of the League. Senor Cabanas of Spain took the floor after President Edwards had announced that debate would be completed to-day so the committees would be able to work both morning and afternoon beginning next Monday.

It had been forecast that the Genoa Conference would produce an organization to supersede the League, said the specker, but this had not been the case. Conferences came and went he said, but the League continued to live.

$500 REWARD FOR

Man Who Attacked Family Hunted Near Olympia

Armed Posses Make Use of Bloodheunds

Olympia, Wash., Sept. 9.—The masked man who made a brutal attack on the O'Hara family eight miles west of here Thursday night, miles west of here Thursday night, beating seven persons into unconsciousness, was still at large to-day, although armed posses were scouring the hilisides and bloodhounds had arrived from Seattle. The dogs were put on the scent and followed a trail leading from the house across a pasture and through underbrush, but lost it on a paved highway and were unable to pick it up again.

A reward of $500 for its capture, dead or alive, has been offered by the County Commissioners.

One In Critical State.

Only one of the seven victims of the assailant is now reported in a critical condition, although all were more or less seriously injured. The latest report is as follows: Mrs. Kate O'Hare, widow, 54, pos-tible skull fracture and bad bruises:

sible skull fracture and bad bruises; Agnes O'Hare, 25, severe head and body bruises; Teresa O'Hare, 22, badly beaten about the head and body: Frances O'Hare, 14, still unconscious, skull probably fractured and may not live; Emma O'Hare, 11, also in serious condition; Joe D'Hare, 14, severely bruised; Joe Dobšan, 21, badly bruised about head.

Approximately 300 irrate citizens of this section went to the O'Hare residence, ready to aid in the pursuit, many of them armed. The general feeling was the fugitive, if captured, might hever be returned alive. The deed is looked upon as the most serious autrage ever committed in this section of the country.

All of the victims, except Joe. Dobson and Teresa O'Hare are still in the hospital.

A report that a man answering the description of the assailant had been seen in Maytown, several miles from here, was received by Chief of Police Burton Troxell, and another from a resident a few miles south of the city, but no further clues were available. If the man had a car, the chances of capture are said to be considerably lessened, as the home and the small store owned by Mrs. O'Hare are on the Olympia Highway. Sheriff R. C. Hoage is in charge of the pursuit.

Dobson's story of the affair was not particularly coherent, while the girl. Teresa, was too nervous to be interviewed.

The facts seem to be established that Dobson and Teresa returned from Olympia about ten o'clock and Dobson parked his car on the high-way. They were met by the masked assailant in the yard, who covered them with a gun and ordered the girl to bind Dobson's wrists with a concluded on page 4.) (Concluded on page 4:)

Big Townsite at Cowichan Bay Included in Scheme

Both Railway and Land Holdings to Yield Big Profits

Two billion feet of the finest timber on the Pacific will 'c tapped by the Cowichan Bay Railroad which is to give the upper Cowichan Lake and Nitinat forest areas now isolated, an outlet to tidewater, according to reports made to the Government following the deposit to-day of $15,000 with Premier Oliver by Henry C. Hall, attorney for the railway promoters.

Demand for timber means that the new railway will be kept working at capacity from the time it is completed, those behind it asserted. Cowichan Lake timber is now in great demand by the sawmills of Beilingham, Priget Sound, Vancouver and the Lower Mainland, as well as Victoria and Island mills. The only line into Cowichan Lake which is now operated, by the C.P.R. is working to capacity and is handling 500,000 feet a day. It was predicted to-day by timber men that the new railroad will work at capacity from the moment it is opened, so great is the demand for the high grade Cowichan Lake cut.

The effect of the strike on the eve of the great grain movement from the prairies is purely conjectural. Should the railway running trades, including enginemen, conductors, brakemen, etc., follow the same course as has been adopted in the United States and refuse, to operate any cars which are not in perfect repair, a serious tie-up in the crop movement would be inevitable. In the United States the rule of the running trades has been to refuse to operate any cars not turned out as fully repaired by the shopmen.

Times Commended for Production of "Outline of History"

Notable Work of H. G. Wells to Commence on Monday

Whatever may be the individual opinion on H. G. Wellss "Outline of History," there can be no doubt of the fact that it forms one of the outstanding works of the present decade. Commencing on Monday The Times will publish the first installment of this work, for which this paper holds the exclusive serial rights on Vancouver Island. words of appreciation of the fact that you are about to publish H. G. Wells's "Outline of History." There may be many different opinions as ito details in that history, but the value of a world vision for the people in these days of world pre-construction should be very valuable. I should like to draw attention to the group of men whom Wells has chosen as the six greatest men of history, i.e., Jesus, Buddah, Asoka, Aristotle, Bacon and Abraham Lincoln. This choice should make us do, a little thinking at least. It is somewhat gratifying in these times of flux to note that a man of Wells's outlook should pick such men out of the thousands of great characters of history. We are not surprised of course at his choice of Jesus, but when we find that most of the others are men of strong constructive religious convictions, we might pause and take note of these men with their religious. Scientific, social, brotherly, altruistic and in some cases somewhat visionary outlook.

"It is interesting to note also that Wells blames the divorce of religious feaching from organized education for what he calls the Decivilization of men's minds in the last century, and believes in the need of a religious revival which will be both moral and intellectual, and suggests that 'Religious emotion—stripped of corruptions and freed from its last priestly entanglements—may presently blow through life again like a great wind, bursting the doors and flinging open the shutters of the individual life, and making many things possible and easy that in these present days of exhaustion seem almost too difficult to desire."

Mr. Bell-irving, according to a Vancouver dispatch, said:

"Mr. Manson promised that the whole question of the Moderation Act and Government liquor control will come up at an early stage in the next session of the Legislature," said Mr. Bell-irving.

Retail sale of beer and light wines will be one of the phases likely to be debated. They Moderation League feels that due regard will have to be taken of the wishes prevalent in the various parts of the country, although the difficulty of legislating to meet opigion that was so much at variance was very real.

Mr. Bell-irving said that after the conference with Mr. Manson the League was satisfied that the Government was prepared to give the matter the fullest consideration, and that it was anxious to do the very best possible in the administration of the Government Liquor Act.

Mr. Manson promised that he would bring down early in the session a full statement of accounts and operations of the Liquor Control Board, and had given the delegation the assurance that every detail would be submitted.

Bishop William C. Pinkham, head of the Calgary diocese of the Church of England, not only approves, but suggests that the world conference be called in Canada, preferably the East, because of its more central position. The meeting should be called as soon as conveniently possible, Bishop Pinkham; said.

Bishop J. T. McNaily, head of the Roman Catholic Church here, expressed his entire approval of Bishop Pinkham; suggestion, saying he would favor any means of establishing stability of society.

Other prominent local ministers, as well as several laymen, stated they would give their unqualified support to the proposal.

Both Quality and Flavor

Mrs. Eleanor Fietcher says that she can not speak too highly of the quality of Pacific Milk, and would use it if it were double the price it is now.

She mentions that under our old method it was, by far, the best for cooking purposes and she did not believe it could be improved, but, "You have done the impossible," given 43 per cent, of rich cream and really improved the flavor as well.

MEN ON TOUR

Montreal Merchants and British M.P.'s at C. P. R. Alberta Ranch

Calgary, Sept. 9.-The soundner of Alberta from an agricultural standpoint was proved to the memparty stopped at Strathmore yester day and paid a visit to the Canadian day and paid a visit to the Canadian Pacific Railway Demonstration farm. This was particularly true regarding the Rt. Hon, the Earl of Stratford, who, when he is at home is deeply interested in agriculture. Under the direction of G. H. Hutton, Superintendent of the Animal Husbandry Branch of the C. P. R.'s Department of Natural Resources, the party was shown through the various departyments, including the dairy, poultry and animal branches. The Earl of Stratford particularly asked many pointed questions regarding the stock industry in the province and seemed particularly interested in the sunflower siles which were being operated.

The tour across the prairies has been one continual enjoyment, according to members of the party. At every stop along the route impromptureceptions were accorded them and many instances bands assembled at the station.

"The western spirit has certainly provailed since we started crossing your vast plains," declared Col. Frank Hilder, M. P. for Essex, "It has simply been a revelation not only to myself but to other members of the party, who, like myself, are making their maiden trip across the continent."

Col. Hilder admitted that he was so impressed with what he had already seen that he was certainly coming back.

Sir Arthur Currie, who is accompanied on the tour by Lady Currie, remarked that he was glad to be returning to the West. "It is my old home, you know," he said, "and I am longing for another glimpse of the Rockies and the broad-Pacific." Lady Currie expressed great pleasure with the journey, admitting that every stop only added to the enjoyment of the trip, as everywhere they had been greeted royally.

No Blame on Germans for Incident in Occupied Territory

"This indicates that Alberta boasts of a stock-raising industry," he remarked as the sunflowers were being cut and packed in the large silo at the dairy barns.

'Mr. Hutton pointed out that this year alone the dairying industry in Alberta, would produce $40,000,000 worth of products.

The fine Hoistein dairy herd called forth much favorable comment, as did the large robing fields of sun-Belgian soldier and a sergeant at

EMBARGO SOON WILL BE LIFTED

Ontario Minister Speaks of Britain and Cattle

Toronto, Sept. 9.-Hon. Manning Doherty, Minister of Agriculture of Ontario, discussed the British embargo on cattle in the course of his speech at the Canadian National Exhibition directors' luncheon yesterday, asserting that the only way in which the lifting of the British ban could now be messed up was by some Canadian blundering. He would reserve anything he had to say in defence of his own course in the embargo battle until it was lifted. "It is only a matter of months now until the embargo is lifted without any strings or tails," he declared amid wild applause. He would not reply now to the unfair criticisms of men who knew better regarding his part in the embargo fight.

"Those who want to hold the embargo are now grasping at straws and they would like to see a fight started among the Canadians," he said. terday, asserting that the only way

MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE IS LAID

South Vancouver, Sept. 9. — A charge of manslaughter was laid against Arthur Fawcett, of New Westminster, driver of a Blue Funnel auto bus, yesterday in connection with the death of Mrs. Annie Brown with the death of Mrs. Annie Brown, 58, of Battison Street, who succumbed to injuries received when struck by an automobile on Kingsway. Fawcett was released on bail of $5,000 to appear Friday, September 16.

Mrs. Brown, a widow, died at the Vancouver General Hospital shortly after noon on Thursday, remaining in an unconscious condition for more than eighty hours.

Fawcett's now at liberty under bail in the amount of $10,000, say the police, former bail of $5,000 having been furnished under a charge of driving to the common danger.

REPLY TO MR. FOSTER.

REPLY TO MR. FOSTER.

To the Editor: Under the heading "A General Strike" W. Foster, in last night's issue of The Times, breaks loose in one of his characteristic non-unifon letters. For some reason or other he can not resirain himself from breaking into print, regardless of whether he knows what he, is talking about or not. My reason for writing this letter is to point out to the people who did read his letter, and may accept it as from a reliable source just how far this man will stray from the truth to cast reflections on an honorable cause. I would like to ask Mr. Foster when the Trainmen's Brotherhood membership was 175,000. He missed the mark by many thousands when he made that guess. And last, but not least, when did the said Brotherhoods become members of the American Federation of Labor? It certainly will be news to a lot of their members. Further he states that so far they have not shown any sympathy towards the strikers As a member of one of the "Trainmen's Organizations," I wish to say that in that statement he is absolutely wrong. We have nothing but the deepest sympathy for the strikers who are fighting for a living wage. We do not blame the strikers for the death of a number of our members as he states. We lay the blame for that upon the men who are trying to break up organized labor and at the same time reduce the laboring man to a wage that means nothing but poverty and hardship to himself and family. Let me point out to Mr. Foster would like to see. I say God help the laboring men of the country. They would be brought to a state of deprivation and suffering that only organized labor has or can eliminate.

LET'S HAVE THE TRUTH. Victoria, B. C. Sept. 7, 1922.

Mr. Millerd declared that if there was no embargo on next year, his firm would not operate its cannery plant on the west coast of Vancouver Island. He advocated an embargo on all kinds of raw salmon, sithough pinks and chums were the most valuable to the canners.

L. H. Nantel asked some questions which aimed at getting 'he witness to say that the whole object in imposing the embargo was a selfish one on the part of the canners.

The girl was commanded to tie the hands of the entire family with strips of sheeting and then her wrists were bound by the assallant. One of the upstairs rooms afterwards revealed great splotches of blood over the floor and beds. Signs of fierce struggles were apparent. The women are said to have pleaded vainly with the assailant, who ordered them about harshly.

Teresa was the first to recover consciousness and escape from the house. The assailant is believed to have still been in the house and to have attempted a pursuit. She ran a half mile to a neighbor's home, broke down under the strain and crawled under a bed, unable to tell the story, according to near relatives.

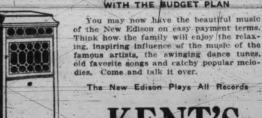

The best description the victims could give of the man was that he was probably between 25 and 30 years of age, was about five feet nine inches tall and wore blue overalls and a black coat and b.

THE PLAYHOUSE

A new idea in these days of tedior repetition should be worth a mint of money, and Mr. Hincke's happy to spiration of 'Potted Opera' for this season's offering at the Playhouse is one which merits the gratitude and support of the entire community.

The fare this week caters particularly for music lovers, though the comedy element is strong in both 'The Girl' From Toklo,' which is the main attraction, and in the state short vaudeville numbers which precede it. Outstanding in point of interest is the engagement of Miss Justine Gilbert, a visitor in the city from Pasadena, where she has already established her reputation in musical circles. As the little Japanese maiden, Oloto San, she is winsome and appealing, and sings with true artistry and grace some very charming numbers; "Tokio" and "They Kiss" being especially attractive and tuneful. Several breezy songs fall to the lot of Ernie Petch, his fine beartone voice being heard to great advantage in "Cheer Up Everybody." Breezes Blow" and "I Like You." His role as the ubiquitous and resourceful Smith affords him many mirth-provoking oppertunities. Jack Petch as the unpopular mayor presents a highly diverting character part, strongiy reminiscent of Hunt ley Wright, and R. N. Hincks as Tommy Turner is provided with excellent scope for his whimsical humor, both in his encounters with General Satake, amusingly presented by Bob Webb, and in his highly individual love scenes with the dainty Betsy Smith. Bob Webb also contributes a rollicking novelty golf song in the preliminary programme, expounding the merits of the "Nineteenth Hole," while Ernie Petch Warn, as accompanist, renders veoman service throughout the evening, her equisite playing being a specially enjoyable feature. The Playhouse is to be heartily congratulated on the fine talent it presents and in the general merit of caste and production. The curtain rises to-night at $30 sharp, and since full houses are a regular feature of the production, intending patrons are advised to make early application for tickets.

Harrison Ship Made No Coast Calls After Leaving Canal Zone

Coming here direct from Balboa, Panama Canal zone, the Harrison Direct freighter Benefactor made port at midday with general freight from the United Kingdom.

The Benefactor is the first vessel of the Harrison Line, plying here in the regular service of the company, to pass Canadian quarantine at William Head.

to pass Canadian quarantine at William Head.

The Canadian quarantine authorities recognize the thoroughness of the American quarantine regulations to the extent that ships securing a clean bill of health at United States ports on the coast are not required to comply with the Canadian regulations on arrival here. It is considered in Canadian shipping circles that this might be made a reciprocal arrangement between the two countries.

The Benefactor has nearly 400 tons

The Benefactor has nearly 400 tons of freight-for-disebarge at this part, including 7,000 or 8,000 cases of liquor. The local freight also includes a shipment of firebrick. Lawrence Miller, the former San Francisco slugger, is giving the National League the surprise with his great hitting and is doing his best in keeping the Chicago Cubs among the contenders for the pennant. Miller is in third place with 1.0 average of 3.56, accerding to figures which including 27 doubles, two triples and sleven homers.

Roger Hornshy enjoyed a profitable week, increasing his average from 329 to 321 for the leadership. He made fourteen hits in his last eight games for a total of 204 hits. Besides his thirty-five home runs, he has made 35 doubles and 11 triples.

GOLFERS ASSEMBLED AT OPENING OF VICTORIA'S FOURTH GOLF LINKS AT UPLANDS ON LABOR DAY

Although the course has been opened for play for two months the formal opening of the Uplands Golf Club was held over until Labor Day. The leautiful clubhouse was opened on Monday and about 300 members and their friends assembled to hear the opening address by President Fowkes and see the Union Jack raised. The Uplands course within a short time will be one of the finest on the Pacific Coast. It is admirably situated, the course has been well laid out and the chubhouse is commodious and comfortable.

Taronto, Sapt 9. The United States senior golf team of fifteen players won its fourth successive victory in the annual international match with the Canadian association here yesterday, being four points up when the last players finished, the totals being 24% to 20%. The first seven Canadian players held their opponents fairly well, but the Americans gradually assumed—a lead of ten points. Victories by Hon. Martin Burrell and Alfred Wright, the last two Canadians to finish, helped to reduce the margin to four points.

The big game of the match was that between the champions of the two associations, George 8. Lyon and Martin J. Condon, which was won by the former, five up. The pair were even at the turn, having halved seven Coast, N. H. L. and Western Moose Jaw, Sept. 9. Plans are afoot for the formation of a new professional hockey league in Western Canada, according to a statement made last night by Harry Mead, one of the directors of the Stadium, Limited, the new company which has taken over the Moose Jaw rink.

Mr. Mead with John Whelan, made application to the Western Canada Hockey League for a Moose Jaw Franchise in that organization. The application was slated for decision at the annual meeting of the league, which was held in Calgary, but neither Mr. Mead nor Mr. Whelan had been advised yesterday of the action taken.

Mr. Mead stated that he and Mr. Martin J. Condon, which was won by the former, five up. The pair were even at the turn, having halved seven holes, and each had a medal score of $5, one over par. On the homeward journey Mr. Lyon maintained his form on the round and came in in one less than par, giving him a par round, while Mr. Condon was slightly erratic in his approaching and took, $2. Mr. Lyon's 70 was the best of the tournament.

Mr. Mead stated that he and Mr. Whelan have decided to turn their attention to the organization of a new professional hockey loop, with Winnipeg. Brandon, Moose Jaw and possibly other cities holding franchises. Mr. Mead and Mr. Whelan expect to leave for Winnipeg and Brandon to-night to hold conferences with hockey impressarios in the two cities.

Calgary. Sept. 3.—A satisfactory working basis was entered into yesterday between the National Hockey League and the Western Canada League. The new basis provides that the world's series games will be played alternately in each league, in the present order, in the Pacific Coast League in 1923, the National Hockey League in 1924, the Western Canada Hockey League in 1924, provided that artificial ice is available in the territory of the Western Canada Hockey League, so that ice can be guaranteed.

Considerable discussion took place with regard to the question of terpitorial rights of new players, and it was finally agreed that the National Hockey League should have first claim on certain well-known amateurs in the East and any promising new material in the Province of Quebec and in the Maritime Provinces; the other two leagues being able to secure their talent from the balance of Canada and from the balance of Canada and from the United States.

In connection with the post-season series for championship finals, players must have been members of the team previous to February 15.
The new arrangement between the Western Canada and the National Hockey League will necessitate corresponding readjustment is the agreement between the Pacific Coast Hockey League and the National Hockey League and the National Victorious In Semi-Finals For U. S. Amateur Golf

Fashion Notes For Fall, 1922

THE NEW FROCKS

Frocks are the most versatile of all the new apparel for Fall. Waist-lines vary from the very low one of Russian origination to the prim tight basque effects. Skirts of course are longer and are shown in many variations of draped styles. For afternoon and evening wear Canton crepe, crepe satin, georgette and velette are some of the most favored fabrics. The tailored dresses are shown in tricotine, gaberdine and picotine handsomely embroidered and braided, while some very attractive sports models are shown in flannels and Shetland wool.

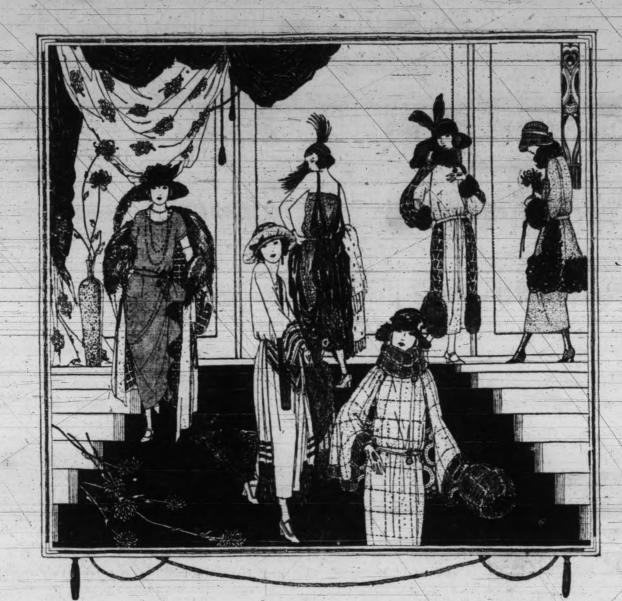

THE NEW COATS

While many of the new coats are shown in plain tailored styles with large collars and loose sleeves, there is no denying that the fur-trimmed models will prove more popular than ever this coming season. Handsome coats of velour, Bolivia cloth, marvella, velette and silvertone are generously trimmed with beaver, astrachan, wolf, opossum, caracul and Alaska sable. The materials have a tendency to be light in weight but extra warmth is effected by the large fur collars and cuffs.

THE NEW SUITS

Luxuriantly trimmed with fur are charming suits of velours and broadcloths in the new Autumn shades such as bronze, elephant, pigskin, seal, hanko, muffin, Congo and wood browns. Handsome embroidery and silk braids form many of the new trimming effects. They feature the full flare sleeves and the skirts are slightly longer, being from five to seven inches from the ground.

Fall Fashion Display

Monday Sept. 11th and Tuesday Sept. 12th

We extend to our patrons and the public a most cordial invitation to attend our Fall Fashion Display on Monday and Tuesday next when we will present a comprehensive showing of the newest and most authentic modes in Fall apparel

Parade of Models

On both Monday and Tuesday afternoon from three to five o'clock Living Models will parade on a specially prepared stage, to the accompaniment of an orchestra, displaying the Season's new creations in Wraps, Coats, Suits, Frocks, Furs, Millinery, Shoes, Neckwear, Hosiery, Gloves and other accessories

The new modes for Falt, as presented in this interesting exhibit, introduce many style changes and demonstrate fashionable apparel of high quality at prices consistent with Hudson's Bay Company's merchandising policy of

Better Values and Lower Prices

Fashion Notes For Fall, 1922

THE NEW FOOTWEAR

The new Fall Footwear shows a decided tendency to favor patent leather and this is specially noticeable in the smart new Oxfords intended for wear with tailored costumes. We are also showing some very smart Oxfords in black and brown kid. The one-strap shoes will be more popular than ever and to harmonize with the new longer skirts are shown in Spanish and Louis heels. Evening slippers favor the more intricate one-strap designs and are fashioned from silver and gold cloths and brocades. The heels vary from 15% to 21/2 in height.

NEW MILLINERY

The new Millinery Modes for Fall are so varied in shape, style and color that it is difficult to say which particular type finds most favor. Soft clinging shapes of velours and velvets are popular while for more formal occasions are new picture hats featuring the wide sweeping lines. But whatever is new and authentic you will find it in our Millinery Section on the second floor.

THE NEW FURS

With an abandoned magnificence in style and splendor the new furs enter the Fall pageant of Fashion. Distinctively new in design and of exquisite quality are wraps, coats and capes of seal, mink, skunk, racoon and muskrat.

Handsome neckpieces are shown in Russian sable, foxes, Hudson's Bay sables, ermine, mink and in all other fashionable furs.

PROVING one of the most popular and closely competed contests that has been staged under the auspices of the children's page for some time the photographic contest is now over, closing on August 31, with a host of entries in all classes. The winning photograph field is one submitted by Charles H. Muston, a fourteen year-old reader of 1135 Empress Avenue, Victoria. Only three entrants qualified for the final round, which makes the award of one prize alone possible. For the final award only flawless photography was accepted which unfortunately eliminated a large number of charming studies.

winner of the series award, the special prize given for the best group of pictures sub mitted during the entire contest, is Miss Eva Hambleton, a sixteen-year-old reader of 2550 Blackwood Street. Master Franklin Lewis 1338 Gladstone Avenue and Miss Winifred Chapman, 1427 Gladstone Avenue deserve honorable mention in this latter class, submitting a series each that were consistently good. The first prize of $5.00 goes to Charles Muston, as stated, while Miss Eva Hambleton wins the special award of $3.00 for the best series

Miss Eva Hambleton wins the special award of a The winning single photograph of the contest is a group of five people, which leads the others by a long margin. The photography is excellent and the grouping exceptionally, good. The winner has grouped his study in such a manner that each present a perfect study in themselves and could be singled out from the group without losing any of their relative weight as a portrait study. The photograph is one of the best 'natural" studies of the centest, in that the individuals are not "posed" but seen in a charmingly open and happy position.

That the ability to choose a subject, adjust a camera, and obtain a resulting photograph that will do justlee to the scene is far more rare than it would appear on the surface has come home to those of our readers who have followed the Photographje Contest now closed. While "pulling the trigger" will produce a "snapshot," it takes practice and a keen eye for artistry to make a finished photograph. Snapshots remain what they set out to be, that is enan or chance shots somewhere in the reis, snap or chance shots somewhere in the re-gion of the scene that is sought.

One of the objects of the Photographic Contest, that of bringing home α realization of the value of good photography, has been amply achieved in the contest just concluded. Of many, entries in all phases of the competition many entries in all phases of the competition a marked improvement was noted as the con-test progressed week by week. Not only did the actual manual work of the photography im-prove but the choice of subject, the selection, grouping, and the other myriad of details were carefully considered. Some of the ork of the contest was done with inexpensive meras of the ordinary "box" pattern. It is a pity that most of the entrants used It is a pity that most of the entraints used cameras of small dimensions, solely for the reason that their work is too minute in detail to make good reproductions for publication. It is to be hoped now that the contest is over that the practice it entailed will not be forgotten, and that the mistakes corrected will remain corrected in the future. It would be an excellent plan for, our camera-lovers to save the physicaraphs, they entered in this contest. photographs they entered in this contest a scrap book, so that in the years to come forea scrap book, so that in the years to come they may be compared with other photographs taken in the future.

A feature of the contest was the large number of entries that dealt with charming subjects but were spoiled through inexperienced photography. The most prevalent fault seems to lie in the fact that many little camera-enthusiasts do not hold their cameras steadily exceeds while in the act of taking a picture. enthusiasts do not hold their cameras steadily enough, while in the act of taking a picture. A slight fogginess on others gives rise to the thought that dirty lenses may have been the cause of that defect. Be sure to have a clean piece of soft silk at hand and remove the lens if necessary wiping it lightly with the cloth until the dust is removed. Be careful not to wet the lens or to rub it with anything but the settlest and cleanest cloth possible.

wet the lens or to rub it with anything but the, softest and cleanest cloth possible.

Another secret of good phetography is to avoid "posiness." So many enthusiasts insist on having their subjects "dress up" and assume a most unnatural attitude to be "taken." The true art of photography, unlike other art, lies in preserving the natural in its perfect state. A "posed" picture is seldom of any merit, and often quite unlike the real subject. This is particularly true of portraiture. It is the simple studies of people in their most natural yeinthat make the best photographs, and particularly is this so were the photograph is for an that make the best photographs, and partially is this so were the photograph is for an althour collection.

In closing, the Children's Editor wishes to thank all readers for the interest they took in the contest, and assure them that the result submitted were very far above the most sanuine expectations. In the judging, points were awarded on several different phases of the work. Choice of subject, originality, care of execution, photographic merit, and many other matters entered into the marks that were awarded to each in the elimination for the final

Training Course for Scout Officers to Be Held Shortly

Rodney Wood is a traveler, big game hunter in Central Africa and Rhodesia, who went through the German East Africa campaign. He was in Nyassaland and is now an instructor in the Gillwell Park course for officers.

Few leaders joining the scout movement during recent years brought with them a broader knowledge of the world's big spaces than Rodney Wood. After leaving Harrow, he spent some years in travel, including nine months of roughing it in British Columbia, then headed for Central Africa, where he spent ten years in pioneering, experimenting in cotton growing, and big game hunting. When the Great War came, he at once joined the Nyassaland forces and served in the campaign against German East Africa and in the Nyassaland Rebellion of 1915, being accustomed to work in the bush and jungle of Central Africa. It may be recalled that Captain F. G. Selous and other well-known hunters were in this campaign against Germany in Africa, where they had spent so much of their lives and to whose condition they were accustomed.

KINDNESS to animals is something more than a cult. It is the foundation of respect for mankind and a fellow kindness to one's companions. A story typical of the life of the late Queen Victoria, known to all as "Victoria the Good," is well-told in "Our Fourfooted Friends," a publication devoted to the interest of dumb animals. Once while visiting a parish in the North of Scotland the late Queen Victoria noticed that the minister was followed everywhere by his collie. The dog would even attend church with him on Sunday, lying on attend church with him on Sunday, lying on the pulpit stegs, while the sermon was in progress. Upon her next visit to that church Her Majesty saw that the dog was absent and inquired where it was. She was told that a member of her retinue had ordered that it be kept out of the church, fearing that its entrance would appear unseemly to the Queen. "Oh, no," was the gracious reply of the Queen, "let him come. I wish everybody behaved as well at church as your noble dog."

Surprised Horses

THE horse is a rare sight on city streets these days when motor vehicular traffic is to be witnessed performing all the old-time duties of Old Dobbin. Occasionally a horse-drawn dray is to be seen and an incident in which one figis to be seen and an incident in which one figured occurred only this week. In nearing the top of a hill with a stiff load a team of horses' drawing a wagon came to a standstill and appeared unable to make the crest of the rise.
A passing motorist impressed with the efforts the gallant animals were making to pull their load, stopped and fastened a rope to the front axle of the wagon so using his machine as to pull the wagon up the remainder of the rise.
Plainly surprised at this unwonted act of kindliness the horses gazed in mute astonishment at the motor car, and even neighed as the latter was being driven away.

Porpoise at Play

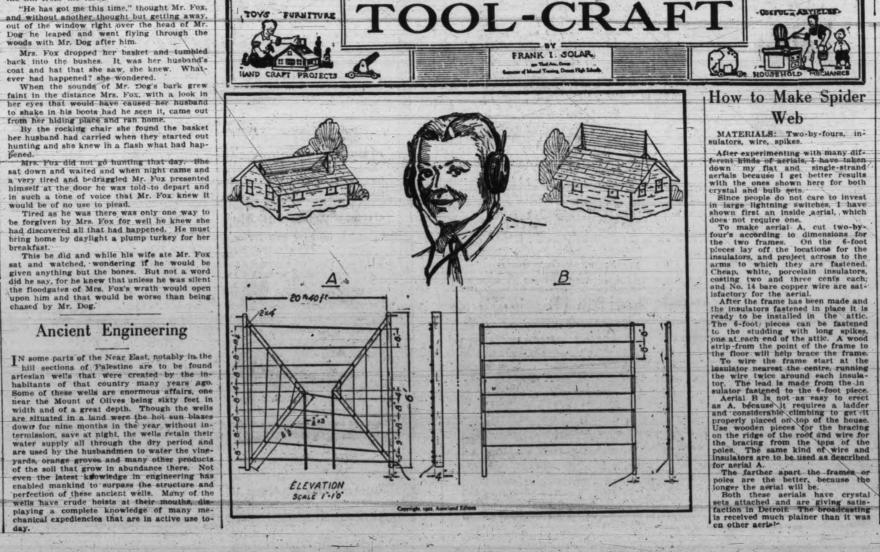

FOLLOWING close on the heels of the cohoe salmon, that annually appear in local waters, the porpoise are beginning to be sighted off Dallas Road. Traveling in schools from two or Dallas Road. Traveling in schools from two or three to dozens at a time, porpoises are interesting denizens of the deep. They live on the smaller fish, mainly herring, and are to be seen following the same shoals of fry that attract salmon. It is suspected that the porpoise may even have a liking for the younger members of the salmon run, but that is not known. Freeding with a keen appetite the perpoise will bers of the salmon run, but that is not known. Feeding with a keen appetite the porpolse will come to the surface of the water making a slight blowing sound. Very little of the porpolse will be seen above the water, save the rounded back as it turns again to dive downwards to the feeding levels below. Often the school, will leave the feeding grounds and play on the surface of the water, playing a kind of gigantic "tag" that is interesting to watch. The sight of a school of porpolse darting after one another to the surface of the water and there rolling over has often led to the belief that the mythical sea serpent of tremendous proportions was at hand.

A Thoughtless Act

How one lapse from carefulness may lead to serious results was exemplified one day this week when a young man set fire to a large section of dried brush on one of the suburban streets of the city and passed on without knowing what he had done.

Ae pedestrian, walking behind the young man saw him throw a half-smoked cigarette away, and then pass into a nearby house. The burning end fell in dry grass starting a fire that grew with great speed until in a few moments the surrounding brush was aftre.

The blaze crept on unchecked until it grew to serious proportions and the free brigade sad to be called out. In another minute or two a nearby fence would have been alight, and that in turn would have endangered a large frame house at this point. Now the young man who threw the lighted cigarette down did not notice what he did, and perhaps does not know to this day what a dangerous result was in the making from his one careless act. Little reader, if you see a match alight on the ground, or the discarded remains of a pipe or cigarette be sure and stop until that danger is averted. In so loing you will be doing a deed of true citizenship, and will teach an object lesson to those who are caresless in this respect.

on the subject, Tommy Shaw said to the grocer: Sampson, are you the man who carried away the gates of Gaza on his shoulders?" Lord Shaw was always a Liberal; but his liberalism took on a more enthusiastic quality from the time when, as a young lawyer, twentynine years of age, he heard Mr. Gladstone ope his first Midlothian campaign in 1879. He did not personally meet the Grand Old Man until 1890, when he was prospective candidate for the Hawick District, which he represented until he became a Lord of Appeal. He gives a wonderfully vivid account of his first dinner party with Mr. Gladstone, at Edinburgh; and of the Gladstonian talk, of which another member of the party, when Mrs. Gladstone had taken her husband off to rest, said, shaking Shaw by the shoulders, "Did you ever, ever, in your life, hear the like of that?"

Gladstone, when some matter involving an opinion was being discussed had a habit of saying "I have a most capricious memory; but I'll give you an instance"; and out would come some incident from his amazing store of experience and reading. Something was said about versions of the Bible, and Mr. Gladstone remarked that it was a pity Zachary Boyd's versified version of the Scriptures had not been reprinted. Boyd was a divine who lived during the reigns of James I. and Charles I., and in the midst of the civil war published "Zion's Flowers", which became known as "Boyd's Bible." Mr. Gladstone had been shown a copy of the work in the Edin-burgh, University Library, and, said he, "I'll give you the four lines on Jonah I saw:

Whin Jonah's whaul began to spew Thinks Jonah, What's adae the noo? Here's nather room for coal nor caunle, There's naething but fishguts to haunle."

The Gladstonian instances on that evening memorable to Mr. Shaw included a story about the size of heads. The people of Aberdeen like to think that their average size in headgear exceeds that of all other communities-perhaps that is one of the reasons why they used to boast that no Jew could flourish in their midst. Cooper, editor of the Scotsman, the great Edinburgh daily which supported Gladstone until he became a Home Ruler, had a large head. He told Gladstone of going to buy a hat. Nothing in the front of the shop was big enough. At last the pro-prietor called out to an assistant, "Go into the back room and bring out an Aberdeen size."

And who's Charles

C. O. Shaw. O. Shaw, you may ask. That you can make such a query is proof of Shaw's modesty, one of the qualities making him a big man.

You've heard of the Huntsville Band; it isn't called Shaw's Band.
You've heard of Bigwin Inn, on the Lake of Bays. It isn't called Shaw's Inn.

But both the band and the hotel are the outcome of the imagination, the enthusiasm and the labor of Charles O. Shaw, aided by friends and associates who take delight in co-operating with him, in playing bugles or furnishing rotundas.

Mr. Shaw is general manager of a leather company in Huntsville. He was interested in music as a helpful factor in community life-hence the band. He was enamored with the romance of the Lake of Bays as an Ontario playground-hence the Inn.

Many wealthy men, when they give play to their enthusiasms, do their playing in the spot-light, often providing even that light themselves. Mr. Shaw remains in the heart of his creation, rather than on the edge where publicity usually strikes.

Now, when you hear that Huntsville Band again, look at the men playing cornets and make vagers with yourself as to which one is Charles PREMIER DRURY'S invariable rejoinder when questioned by newspapermen as to his attitude on matters of policy is, "Ask the prime minister tells with gusto. It has to do with a farm hand who undertook to lead a certain unruly steer to market. After making one end of a rope fast round the animal's horns, the hired man looped the other end round his own waist and set off down the road. It was not long, however, before the steer bolted and, instead of leading the way, the farm hand was dragged at an un-comfortably rapid gait behind the perceiving the incint raised a shout:

Hon. E. C. Drury goin' with that steer?"

It was not long, however, before the steen bolted.

"Better ask the steer," came his assistant's But for once, at least, in the "broadening out" controversy, Mr. Drury is on the front end of

Over-married

HERE is a story of Lady Astor and her old negro nurse, Aunt Isetty, whom she met again during her recent visit to America. She was showing Aunt Betty some pictures of Cliveden, her beautiful home on the Thames, with its wonderful lawns and gardens. Aunt Betty looked at the photographs, looked at Lord Astor, and then at Lady Astor.

"Well, Miss Nancy," she said at last, "all I's got to say is dat yo' suttingly did overmarry

Ninety-Four Year Old American Won't Be Called Viscount.

HENRY EDWARD PELLEW, on the right, a Washingtonian, 94 years old, recently succeeded to the title of Viscount of Exmouth and 3,000 acres of British soil. The elderly viscount, who has spent 50 years of his life in America, is quite indifferent to the viscountes and will not return to England. The title will pass on to his son, Chas, Ernest Pellew, adjutant professor of chemistry at Columbia and president of the New York Society of Craftsmen, whose photograph is on the left. "The whole thing," says Mr. Pellew, "is a perfect accident and must not be taken

Kind Action of Hodder Touched the Japanese

Commissioner Hodder Cave Up His Own Overcoat to a Poor Man.

C OMMISSIONER HENRY HODDER is the new officer appointed to take charge of the Salvation Army in Canada West. He is a man of wide experience and marked ability. He has been in charge of some of the most important positions in the Salvation Army in Great Britain, Holland, Japan and New Zealand.

He has been transferred to Winnipeg headquarters direct from

New Zealand, where he has been in charge of S. A. affairs for seven and a half years. During the war so great an effort did he make for the comfort and welfare of the New welfare of the New Zealand troops that he earned the en-"New Zealanders' Pal," and was hon-ored by his king and services. During his stay in Japan he made a great impression by his practical Christianity, and a How a surgical operation was performed impression by his practical Christianity, and a How a surgical operation was performed in impression by his practical Christianity, and a story is told that while visiting the interior of that country during a hitter winter he heard of a Japanese Salvationist who could not earry out his work owing to not possessing sufficient warm clothing. Commissioner Hodder made his way to the man and when he found it was impossible to get clothing for a considerable time took off his own overcoat and gaze it to the Japanese. to the man and when he found it was impossible to get clothing for a considerable time took off his own overcoat and gave it to the Japanese, and finished his tour without an overcoat.

This act of practical sympathy so took hold of the native that he is to-day a Salvation Army officer and a Christian missionary to his own

Redundancy to Order

STORY is being told of Lord Curzon which A if not true, ought to be. It is to the effect that he asked a member of the staff at the foreign office the other day to prepare a reply to a question addressed to him by the Archbishop of Canterbury.

The answer was prepared, and found to be very brief. Whereupon Lord Curzon summoned the whole staff and dilated upon the indignity.

Did they not see the difference, he asked, between a question addressed to Lord Curzon by the Archbishop of Canterbury and a question put by Kenworthy to Lloyd George?

See heads them set have an archives an

So he bade them get busy and produce an answer more worthy of the occasion, and the five lines of the original reply were expanded into something between fifty and five hundred,

HIS REAL LIVE DUKE WAS TOO MUCH FOR HIM

The Switchman, Discovering He Had Been Talking to the Duke of Connaught, Fled in Haste.

GOOD story is related of the Duke of Connaught when he was traveling through a rural district in northern Ontario. The train on which he was traveling was rust up on a siding until the oncoming express had passed. One of the switchmen who had heard a great deal about the Duke of Connaught, but had not had an opportunity of seeing him, re-not let slip this chance of seeing a real live duke. He real live duke. He therefore ran nimbly along the platform peering excitedly in to the various coach es, of which the blinds were drawn, in the hope that he might count a glimpse of the great personage for whom he was looking. As it was only 4 a.m.

on board to be about, but, seeing a closely muffled figure sauntering towards him, he ras excitedly up to him and said in a stage whisper. "Say, where is his nibs? But I suppose people like him won't be awake yet." The man accosted said, "Of whom are you speaking?" "Why, said the switchman, disgustedly, "the 'dook, of course." A twinkle appeared in the Duke of Connaught's eyes when he replied: "Yes, the duke is awake. What can I do for you, sir?" at the same time extending his hand, but a face toface encounter with a real live duke proved too much for the unsophisticated northerner, for with one bound he cleared the track and disappeared into the semi-darkness with the swifthours after the search was being continued for

This is Rev. E. J. Peck, made a doctor of divinity not long ago by Wycliffe College, Toronto, for his labors in translating the Scriptures into the Eskimo tongue. For forty years he was a missionary of the Anglican Church or Land, and further back than that he was an A. B. seaman in the same ship of her Majesty's navy as a small youth, Midshipman Fisher, better known to this generation as Admiral Sir John

At the present time impaired eyesight re-duces Dr. Peck's activity, but he usually man-ages to work in one or two addresses or sermons a week on behalf of his beloved Eskimo. Until three years ago he made an annual trip to inspect and supervise the mission stations in Hudson Strait and Baffin Land, traveling by the Hudson Bay Co. steamer Nascople, which sails from Montreal up the coast of Labrador and through Hudson Bay to York Factory.

It was Dr. Peck's custom to leave the Nascopie as she went into the bay at the southern point of Baffin Land and rejoin her again when she called on her way out. On his last trip he was anxious to spend more time at a mission the southern shore of Hudson Strait than would be allowed by the one or two days' stay of the steamer on her way out. There was a small motor boat and a supply of gasoline on the north shore, but no crew. Nothing daunted, Dr. Peck discovered an Eskimo youth who said he could run the engine, and taking the tiller him self, they plunged out into the icy dangers of Hudson Strait, which at that point is ninety miles wide.

Dr. Peck brought his little craft into the haven on the south shore without mishap and spept a week at the mission station before the Nascopie arrived. The captain and crew of the big steamer were astonished at the feat, but to Dr. Peck, who for forty years had traveled about Hudson Bay in whaleboats, canoes and Eskimo skin boats, the trip in the power boat seemed rather a providential opportunity than an a

A foreman named Preston, who is a Red Cross commandant, realizing that the unfortunate man could not live long in that position, improvised a platform high enough to reach the workman and with only his Red Cross outfit, amputated the man's arm.

The work was done so successfully that when a doctor arrived he said he could not have performed the operation better himself in ordinary circumstances, and that it undoubtedly saved the workman's life.

The workman is now quite well.

CONSCIENCE AGAIN

"That is a nice umbrella you have," remarked his companion.
"Yes, it is, but its not mine, or at least I can't think so."

"What do you mean?"
"Well, it was raining hard one evening when I saw a young man coming along in the direction I wanted to go. I hailed him: Where are you going with that umbrella? I said. He dropped the umbrella and ran!"

OUT OF DANGER

"I hear your brother is sick, Mike."

"He is that."
"And is he dangerously slek?"
"No, he's beyond that; he's too slek to be ingerous," was the unexpected reply.

Channel open to us to avoid a strike and at the same time protect the men whom we represent. Even the invocation of the Industrial Disputes Act proved futle.

Our committee are still in conference deliberating as to what our next step will be, but have no hesitation in saying lhat instructions will be issued within the mext few days for a cessation of work by all railway shopmen in the Dominion. However, I will deem it my duty to advise you more fully on this just as soon as the strike call has been issued.

Water the strike as the strike call has been issued.

Water the strike as the strike call has been incomplete to referred back to the old board is problematical.

Hon, James Murdock, Minister of Labor, was in conference with Premier King for some time varieties.

However, I will deem it my duty to advise you more fully on this just as soon as the strike call has been issued.

"Yours truly,

The circular letter which has been sent out to the shopmen, after formally setting forth the findings of the concillation board, says:

"Your committee is in personal communication with the Railway Employees' Department and will be in a position to advise our membership within the next few days. In the meantime, all locals must prepare

EXPERT ADVICE ON RADIO

(By A. Hyatt Verrill) Installment No. 8

THE BUSINESS MAN'S RADIO SET

(By the Radio Editor.)

An exceptionally serviceable longdistance receiving set that was assembled by a New York business man, is illustrated here. The owner, My Julian Chase, had no technical experience in radio work, and one of the remarkable features of the set is middle switches of the upper set are used for changing over from the low wave set to the high wave set. Above whose switches are mounted the hopeword could be a technical experience in radio work, and one of the remarkable features of the set is the fact that the owner obtained his ideas partly from his radio amateur friends and partly from newspaper articles on radio, and incidentally from his casual-operation of a small receiving set which he formerly owned.

The set is unusual too, in that it is complete in detail for receiving all wave lengths that are used both commercially and by the amateurs, as it has a ranke of from two hundred to twents thousand meters.

In the lower left hand corner of the illustration may be seen the low wave set that is used for listening to the nightly concerts and to amateur. To the right of this cabinet is the two-stage amplifier which amplifies the signals to great strength. Directly above the low wave set is seen the long-distance commercial stations of this and foreign countries. The two but $20 to the long-distance commercial stations of this and foreign countries. Chicago, Sept. 9. The Government report issued yesterday influenced some wheat selling and there was a slightly lower opening. Pressure was far from heavy, and the market displayed an undercurrent of strength May far from heavy, and the market estimated an undercurrent of strength despite the fact there was no news to smooth the fact there was no news to smooth the fact there was no news really of any sort in circulation that could really be credited influential.

Corn prices declined sharply at the start on selling inspired by the bear-ish construction placed on yesterday's crop report and more favorable weather conditions over the big belt.

Trade in oats to-day was somewhat smaller than it has been for the past few days, but the market had a firm tone with no pressure of consequence in evidence. Receipts were estimated at 100 cars and sold on a firm basis. The present level of prices is attractive to investors.
